1. In December 1950, it was learned that barracks installations in the Greater Berlin area, namely those on Bouchestrasse, Elsenstrasse, and Am Treptower Park in Treptow, and those in Adlershof, were heavily occupied by Bereitschaftspolizei. The installations in Adlershof still housed a part of the HVA, although most of the HVA elements had moved to Potsdam. Heavy traffic and extensive construction work were observed at the barracks installation in

2. On 15 January 1951, a great deal of activity was noticed in the barracks installation on Bouchestrasse, Berlin-Treptow. It was said that groups of police between 18 and 22 years of age arrived there daily. Most of them spoke the Saxon dialect. They were only allowed to leave the installation in groups led by VP Nachtmeister. Motor

- * Comment. The 1st VP Bereitschaft (Inf) is located in Treptow. Apart from rumors, no precise information has been obtained on an eventual transfer of the HVA from Adlershof. A coordinating headquarters of the HVA, HVS, and the projected HVL (Hauptverwaltung Luftpolizei) (Main Administration Air Police) was to be established in Potsdam.
